

OCTOBER 2011

After working on projects in Georgia and Jersey this summer, it will be nice to settle into the mad routine of fishery management UK; apart from I have a week's work in France end of November! Lots of netting and grading at Lemington lakes of course, and I am very pleased as we have just done our first 40! (Which has grown on in the same fishery!) Orders are good for winter fish sales; if your fishery or club requires quality stock this winter, get in touch. I have been applying calcium carbonate to lakes for 20 years, and the many benefits are clear to me. I recently spoke about it at a seminar at Sparsholt College, if you want to understand more get in touch.

People worried about the upcoming winter really need to realise and understand basic fishery management. You can't have the blinkered view of the naive many that just say "well, everyone loses fish" because that is not true! You must be responsible for your stocks. I still have a few dates available for survey work in January, so if you require a full and thorough survey of any of your waters, contact me to discuss. I hope all fishery owners have a good winter, I know my clients will!
